

St. Thomas Church, Satara.

The church of St Thomas at Satara is now known, as English church in Satara, Satara was the old capital of the rajahs of Maratha. The St. Thomas Church of Satara was built by British in 1847. It is of early English style design. During this period the colours of the 6th regiment of Indian infantry were deposited in the church for keeping intact the story of the colors laid up in the garrison churches of western India which might inspire a most interesting book many of them were encased for better preservation by Lord Lloyd, governor at that time.